EST BOTANICALS 1975

LETTER FROM THE CEO

Cole Daily joined Starwest Botanicals in 2022. With more than three decades of experience in the natural food and organic industry, he's spent most of his career traveling to more than 30 countries sourcing herbs, spices, teas, essential oils, coffee and tea.

As CEO, he oversaw Starwest Botanicals rebrand and refresh of its consumer website as well as quality and sourcing certifications and achievements to position the brand for long term success.

Daily received his bachelor's degree from Coe College and his masters of business degree from the University of Iowa Tippie School of Business.

Cole and his wife, Lora, have been married for over 30 years and have one daughter and a grandson. Outside of work, Daily enjoys spending time with his family and all types of outdoor activities – he recently hiked to the Everest Base Camp. Growing up in a family with 6 brothers and 4 sisters (he was often referred to as #9), not only did he learn to get to the dinner table early, but also the value of teamwork, enjoying somewhat-controlled chaos, and the essence of humility.

Starwest Botanicals continues to undergo a remarkable evolution. Without forgetting what got us here and with an ever-present focus towards meeting and exceeding the needs of customers today, we have invested in our future and yours. Our new website is just one of the many investments we've made within the last year. From things you don't see – like our technological upgrades and infrastructure improvements – to things you do see – like our refreshed logo and mobile-friendly website – we are now poised to help you thrive and grow well into the future.

Unearthing the wonders of nature to inspire everybody has taken us around the globe searching for the places and spaces that are not only growing the best botanicals, teas, and spices but also keeping sustainability and the effects those products have on the people and communities who create them top of mind. What makes us most proud here at Starwest Botanicals is the responsibility we have to bring those products back home to you. Our new website will help be a conduit that joins us all together. From their home to our home to your home, we will strive every day to live up to the ideals of bringing people together through botanicals to inspire every body.

Cole Daily, CEO

Small Eco-Friendly Pouches!

ECO-POUCHES

Consumer demand for culinary and wellness botanicals are on the rise. The advantages of small pre-packaged pouches for you and your customers:

- ✓ Safe and convenient alternative to bulk bins. Our Eco-Pouch line alleviates customer concerns about accessing product from potentially contaminated bulk containers.
- ✓ Pre-packaged pouches make for easy grab-n-go items vs the time-consuming process of filling, sealing, and labeling a bag.
- ✓ A smaller pouch, with a reduced price point is an economical solution that will encourage trial purchases and ultimately sales on the larger bulk bags. Other customers will appreciate the small pouch in quantities that can reasonably be consumed.
- ✓ Lessen the impact of spillage and theft.
- ✓ 21 of our pouches have eco-friendly packaging made from recyclable materials with clog-resistant re-sealable zipper closure (exceptions are the cinnamon, cloves and turmeric pouches).
- ✓ Pre-printed bags are opaque to protect herbs and spices from light degradation.
- ✓ High quality assurance and ethical sourcing. No-ETO and Non-Irradiated.

Packaging: To preserve and maintain their beneficial properties for years, most of our Eco-Pouches are packed in an eco-friendly pouch that has a high barrier, all PE recyclable structure. These pouches can be recycled through the Store Drop Off stream (with exceptions for the cloves, cinnamon and turmeric pouches). Go to the link below, enter your zip code, and it will provide you with your closest drop off location: <https://how2recycle.info/sdo>. Pouch size: 5" W x 8" H.

Ginseng Roots and Powders

In general, people consider Chinese Red Ginseng to be more “warming” or energizing, while Chinese White Ginseng is considered to be more “cooling” or calming. White and Red Ginseng are both shade- and sun-dried. Additionally, the Red Ginseng goes through a process to steam it before drying is completed.

Organic Blazing Cider Blend

Be well with Blazing Cider support!

Organic Blazing Cider is our very own version of the well-known apple cider vinegar-based tonic “Fire Cider.” It is a tasty blend of slightly spicy, warming, organic herbs and spices including ginger, cayenne, and turmeric. It makes a delicious brew to help support overall health and well-being year round, and is the perfect addition to your daily wellness routine. It can also be a healthful culinary addition to many recipes and drinks.

What is Fire Cider exactly?

The “Fire Cider” formula and name were coined by herbalist Rosemary Gladstar in the 1980s. The traditional tonic is a mixture of healthful herbs and spices including garlic, hot peppers, onion, and more. Those herbs are combined with apple cider vinegar, which infuses together for several weeks, and honey is added to the finished tonic. Rosemary taught her students how to make fire cider at the school she founded–The California School of Herbal Studies. She also published the tonic recipe in her very first book. It became so popular in part because it was made from common kitchen ingredients that were easy to find and inexpensive. It’s very simple to make and tastes great, with just the right amount of sweet, sour, and spicy.

The “Fire Cider” recipe has since been adapted countless times over the last 40 years with hundreds of different variations. It has been sold by other herbal companies, cited in several books, and added to the winter health curriculum at many herbal schools. Rosemary Gladstar encouraged experimentation with the ingredients, and to make it your own. So, you can try adding any number of other herbs and spices to our Organic Blazing Cider blend to make your own unique versions of this delicious, healthful tonic!

STARWEST SOURCING STORIES:

Ceylon Cinnamon

Cinnamon is one spice that we hardly think twice about including in our pantry. It is a must-have; a trusty standby; the go-to spice when the holidays come around. But did you know there are two types of cinnamon in the market today - Ceylon and Cassia. Although both of these cinnamons come from the inner bark of the Cinnamomum tree and have the same active ingredients, the potency and origin differ greatly.

Native to Sri Lanka and often referred to as “Ceylon” or true cinnamon at retail, its name is a relic of the colonial times in Sri Lankan history. Though Cassia is most commonly found on grocery store shelves, Ceylon has increased in popularity in the last few years. Ceylon cinnamon’s active ingredient – cinnamaldehyde – has been reported to have numerous positive effects on overall body health and wellness.*

The rainforest and jungles in the center of the island country are where the spice industry thrives and where Starwest Botanicals sources its Ceylon cinnamon from partners Small Organic Farmers’ Association (SOFA).

SOFA

SOFA is leading the country in its organic farming methods and its focus on the sustainability and protection of the environment. Using fair trade principles, SOFA gives back and enhances the living standard of small farmers and the poor in the community.

Approximately 1,200 SOFA members in the Matale and Galle regions of Sri Lanka produce organic and biodynamic spices as part of the association. Black pepper, clove, nutmeg, cardamom, ginger and, of course, cinnamon grow well in the area’s rich soil.

Members are taught to practice a mixed cropping system with cash crops, shade trees, repellent crops, and medicinal herbs. Maintaining this biodiversity creates the ideal environment for more fauna diversity which is helpful to natural pest management allowing some of the world’s best cinnamon to grow and be harvested from the region.

In addition to improving farming methods with training and education, the association has invested in drinking water projects, preschools, education programs, roads construction, and community centers to improve the lives of all residents.

210351	-01	-04	Sea Salt, Alaea	Fine Grind	United States	15.73	6.18
			Alaea is the traditional Hawaiian table salt used to season and preserve foods. Alaea is non-processed and is rich in trace minerals, all found in the sea water. A small amount of the natural mineral "Alae" (volcanic baked red clay) enriches the salt with iron-oxide, seals in the moisture, and adds flavor while also giving the salt its distinctively attractive red color. The Hawaiian clay gives the salt a subtle, earthy flavor with a slightly mellower taste than regular sea salt. Alaea is perfect for making tasty spice blends and rubs for meat, and particularly brings out the flavor when roasting or grilling the meat. It's perfect for pork loin, Kalua Pig, steak, and is also the traditional and authentic seasoning for the native Hawaiian dishes Jerky and Poke.

In addition, the stunning black color makes it the perfect finishing salt to dress up any dish.

210156	-31		Sea Salt, Pacific	Medium Grind	Australia	5.16
			Pacific Natural Sea Salt is harvested from the clear waters of the great southern ocean, between New Zealand's North and South Islands and into the solar salt field. The levels of calcium, magnesium, and other minerals are higher than other sea salts and ordinary table salt. The natural minerals in sea salt add a pure, clean, healthy flavor to your food.

Elderberry

Sambucus trees, also known as elderberries, are packed with polyphenols, which act as antioxidants that may help support the immune system.* However, it's not recommended to eat elderberries raw. Elderberry lozenges, supplements and syrups are the most common ways to get the benefits of these small but mighty berries.

Like most of the products available at Starwest, elderberries do more than taste great and help us optimize our overall health. Elderberries sourced from our partners in Bulgaria also give meaningful work to farmers and collectors across the region.

Grown and harvested at peak flavor, Bulgarian-grown elderberries are offered in both wildcrafted and organic options at Starwest. Wildcrafted elderberries grow throughout the mountainside of Bulgaria. Working with a network of small collectors from across the region, wildcrafted elderberries are harvested, cleaned, optically color-sorted and steam sterilized to ensure the absolute best quality.

As a leading Bulgarian producer of tea, herbs, and nutritional supplements, our partner holds International Organization for Standardization (ISO), USDA Organic and Kosher certifications.

Black and Oolong Teas

Black Teas are fully oxidized (fermented), then heated and dried, producing a dark red-brown brew with a deep, robust, full-bodied taste. It does contain less caffeine than coffee, but usually more caffeine than Green and White Teas. Contains caffeine.

Oolong Tea undergoes partial fermentation, producing a brew with milder characteristics of both black and green teas. The leaves are oxidized at different levels, which results in a broad range of flavors and aromas. The end result is a medley of black and green teas with a full-bodied, smooth taste. Oolong typically contains less caffeine than Black Teas, but usually more than Green Teas. Contains caffeine.

401325	-01	-04	⚠	Oolong, Da Hong Pao Tea	OP	Organic	China	29.12	8.86
				Da Hong Pao is one of the most famous oolong teas in the world. It comes from the famous Wuyi Mountains in the Fujian Province of China. It is one of 5 'Rock Teas', meaning the teas are grown in more rocky areas making the mineral content in the soil much denser. This is what gives the 5 rock teas their signature flavors. This very full-bodied, roasty flavored tea has a very particular sweetness to it and is reminiscent of baked goods or molasses.

401390	-01	-04	⚠	Oolong, Tie Kuan Yin Tea		Organic	China	26.22	8.43
				Oolong Tea undergoes partial fermentation, producing a beautiful medley of black and green teas with lightly roasted curled leaves, and it has a full-bodied, smooth taste. Low in caffeine, one cup of oolong tea has 10-15% of the caffeine in a cup of coffee. A succulent tea sure to appeal to the senses of both the black and green tea lover.
401440	-01	-04		Pu-erh Yellow Tea		Organic	China	35.32	10.86
				Pu-erh is produced in the Yunnan province of China, and is a unique and unusual slightly aged tea that is famed for its medicinal qualities. This tea is generally aged for six months to one year, and approximates the result of the long-aged Pu-erh tea process. It is unusual because unlike other teas, it uses an accelerated fermentation process called The Wo Dui (wet-piling) process, which involves piling, dampening, and turning the tea leaves. This process ensures even fermentation. Pu-erh is the most oxidized form of tea and can mellow and improve with age like fine wine. It produces a dark red liquor with a full-bodied, earthy taste.

Green and White Teas

Green Tea has been long valued for its medicinal and healthful properties due to it being packed with antioxidants, vitamins and minerals, including ascorbic acid (vitamin C), several B vitamins, riboflavin, niacin, and folic acid. Green teas have approximately 20-30% as much caffeine as in a cup of coffee, and less caffeine than Black Tea. Contains caffeine.

White Tea undergoes the least processing – the leaves are simply withered and dried. This method maintains higher levels of antioxidants, polyphenols, and vitamins, while also yielding much less caffeine than the other tea varieties. Contains caffeine.

401309	-01	-04		Bancha Tea		Organic	China	18.96	6.92
				Plucked and produced according to ancient Japanese tradition, this is the tea to recommend the next time you're asked for something easy drinking, at any time of day. In Japan, Bancha's ancestral home, this grassy green brew has long been considered the journeyman of teas and is the cup of tea most commonly consumed. Bancha itself is notable for the fact that it is plucked from the same bushes as Sencha, arguably the best-known Japanese variety on the international stage. The difference is that the leaves used to produce Bancha are typically plucked and harvested later, after Sencha season, resulting in a coarser appearance that often includes some stalk and stem. The coarse quality of the loose leaf gives the tea a unique character, milder infusion and lowered caffeine and tannin levels compared to many finer grade green teas. Bancha Tea has a light, refreshing flavor, with a mildly vegetal finish. It's your everyday drink: toasty, energetic, and strong.

401420	-01	-04		Chunmee Green Tea		Organic Fair Trade	China	18.16	7.39
				Chunmee (eyebrow tea) gets its name from the curve of the processed leaf. The leaves are carefully hand rolled to the shape of eyebrows and then pan-fried. The pan-fried leaves produce a highly fragrant, yellow-greenish brew with a distinctive, sweet flavor, and is known for its plum-like sweetness and smoothness. For Fair Trade Tea only - Ingredients: Organic Green Tea*. *Fair Trade Certified™ by Fair Trade USA.
401336	-01	-04		Dragonwell Tea		Organic	China	24.57	8.09
				This tea has a very distinctive shape: smooth and perfectly flattened along the inside vein of the leaf, the result of highly skilled shaping in a hot wok. This process, known as pan-firing or pan-frying, was perfected in China by tea masters over the centuries and gives the tea an inviting, toasty aroma. Its sweet, rounded flavor with nuances of roasted chestnut makes this a truly satisfying cup of tea. It's especially refreshing when sipped throughout the day.

Tea Grade Information

Tea grades are a way that teas can be ranked or categorized. A grade can refer to several things, including the shape of the tea leaf, the size of the leaf, and the time of year it was picked. It is important to understand that grading terms only give information about the appearance and size of the leaf, and one main purpose of grading and sorting is to ensure the uniformity of the leaf size.

The grade can also reflect the caffeine content of a tea. Because younger leaf buds contain more caffeine than mature leaves, teas like TGFOP can contain more caffeine than FOP or OP grades. How the tea is actually prepared also plays an important role in the caffeine content in a cup. Everything from the amount of tea used, to water temperature and brewing time, to whether the leaves are steeped loose, in strainer, or a tea bag, becomes a factor. In general though, more tea, hotter water, and longer steeping can all contribute to more caffeine per cup.

While tea grades can be an important factor, grades are not the only factors that determine the quality and price of a tea, and it can really be a combination of things. Both quality and price can also be affected by where the tea is grown, the conditions it's grown in, and the cultivation and processing methods.

Common Leaf and Grade Descriptions

Flowery Orange Pekoe (FOP) refers to a high quality whole leaf tea with a long leaf and good balance of tips. FOP contains fine, tender young leaves with buds (referred to as tips) and is made from the first two leaves and bud of the shoot. When harvested during the slow growth periods, these young buds have a golden tip, hence the grade 'Flowery', thus making it Flowery Orange Pekoe (FOP).

Tippy Golden Flowery Orange Pekoe (TGFOP) is FOP with a larger amount of tips. When these tips are in abundance, the terms 'Tippy and Golden' are attached to FOP, thus making it Tippy Golden Flowery Orange Pekoe. TGFOP is the top grade of OP tea.

Orange Pekoe (O.P.) is a high quality grade whole leaf tea that does not usually contain tips and consists of many whole, thin and wiry tea leaves of a uniform size. Usually harvested when the end buds open into a leaf, and picked later than FOP.

Broken Orange Pekoe (BOP) is the next grade below Orange Pekoe, which designates a smaller, broken leaf. When crushed to make bagged teas, the tea is referred to as "Broken" (B).

			Our Organic and Fair Trade Matcha Tea are both culinary grade matchas. They make a delicious tea, and are often used in cooking and baking. Culinary grade matcha is a very high quality tea, just with a slightly different flavor profile than ceremonial grade matcha. Culinary grade matcha isn't necessarily a lower quality product than ceremonial grade matcha, it's just prepared differently for a different use – and it features different characteristics. It has a more robust flavor than ceremonial grade matcha, is slightly less sweet, with more bitter notes. It tastes delicious as an iced tea, the traditional hot tea, and makes wonderful green tea lattes and matcha smoothies. Its enhanced flavor profile pairs perfectly with other flavors, and it is a versatile ingredient commonly used in a variety of sweets and baked good recipes, including ice cream, pies, mousse, cupcakes, shortbread cookies, and pancakes.

			Sipped for centuries in the traditional Japanese tea ceremony, ceremonial grade matcha is the highest quality green tea powder available. Ceremonial grade matcha is made from the youngest shade grown tea leaves, with the stems and veins entirely removed. The leaves are stone-ground, which makes the matcha suitable for a thick-style tea. It is the perfect choice to use in the Japanese tea ceremony. This premium grade is vibrant green in color with a smooth, refreshing, slightly sweet and mildly rich flavor, with a silky texture. It makes a delicious tea!

Yerba Maté Leaf Tea and Accessories

Yerba Maté is a traditional South American brew that's been said to offer the “strength of coffee, the benefits of a healthful tea, and the euphoria of chocolate” all in one beverage. You can also use the traditional vessels for drinking maté – a gourd and bombilla straw. Yerba Maté provides antioxidants, minerals, amino acids, and B vitamins to support a healthy lifestyle. It is a balanced and healthful tea that produces a smooth and refreshing full-bodied beverage, and is known as an energizer and rejuvenator. All Yerba Maté Leaf Teas do contain caffeine and the caffeine content can vary, depending on which variety of maté it is and how you prepare it. STARWEST SOURCING STORIES:

Turmeric

While it may seem like turmeric has suddenly become all the rage in wellness communities here in the U.S., the use of turmeric dates back nearly 4,000 years to the Vedic culture in this part of India.

This warm, earthy, deep yellow spice has been the gold standard for natural wellness for thousands of years. As a powerful antioxidant with the active ingredient curcumin, turmeric may help support immunity and overall health and wellness.*

Deep in the mountains of Kerala, India is where we find the world's best turmeric and one of our newest sourcing partners – Peermade Development Society (PDS). These curcumin-rich rhizomes grow below the surface of the ground allowing for long fingers to develop. Fingers are harvested, dried, cleaned, and sold whole or ground into the spice we know and love.

PDS

PDS is a non-governmental organization engaged in the sustainable development of marginal and small farmers in India. For more than 40 years, PDS has been working to build resilient farming communities and bring economic self-sufficiency to families.

Today, PDS works directly with more than 2,000 small scale farmers in the Western Ghats region of India to help them achieve organic certifications and maintain their land using the most effective and sustainable methods. Training and education are at the heart of PDS's work, allowing small family farms to flourish with spices like black pepper, ginger, cloves, and turmeric all growing side by side, organically. All materials from PDS are traceable back to the field level.

Engaged in the sustainable development of marginal and small farmers in India.

Why Choose Starwest?

Certified Organic and Wildcrafted Varieties:

We make our liquid extracts and tinctures with premium quality organically grown or ethically wildcrafted herbs. Our Certified Organic varieties are all grown in compliance with the National Organic Program and Certified Organic by Quality Assurance International (QAI). We follow strict guidelines to ensure that all herbs ethically wildcrafted are free of environmental contaminants, and that rare and endangered species continue to survive in their natural habitat.

Quality Control: All of our herbs and botanicals used in our liquid herbal extracts and formulas are tested for a variety of specifications in our Quality Control Laboratory, including identity and purity, along with a number of other additional tests. We are committed to stringent quality control inspection procedures, and our experienced technicians hand select only superior quality herbs and botanicals for extraction.

Extraction Process for Herbal Extracts:

We use a cold process method that extracts the maximum amount of vitamins, minerals and active constituents of the herb, and the certified organic alcohol base we use acts as an excellent preservative, maintaining the integrity of the herb. Our liquid herbal extracts have an herb strength of 1 to 1, which means 8 lbs. of dried herb are used to make 1 gallon of extract, with a standard 30% alcohol content.

Culinary Flavor Extracts

Flavor Extracts are made by mixing a concentrated natural flavor with alcohol. Most of the alcohol burns off or evaporates during cooking or baking, leaving behind the desired, concentrated natural flavor.

Packaging: To preserve and maintain their beneficial properties for years, our 4 fl oz Flavor Extracts are packaged in light resistant, dark glass amber bottles with a pressure sealed lid and a taper seal poly liner. This elegant bottle is the perfect way to protect light-sensitive liquids, because the dark amber glass helps prevent light degradation. NOTE: Many essential oils + displays, aromatherapy blends and touch-ons, are considered flammable for shipping purposes and can only be shipped via UPS Ground and UPS Standard to Canada.

Essential Oils – Certified Organic and Conventional

Prices for larger quantities are available upon request.

Packaging: To preserve and maintain their beneficial properties for years, our essential oils are packaged in light resistant, dark glass amber bottles. Available in a variety of sizes, our 1/3 fl oz and 1 2/3 fl oz sizes are fitted with a dropper insert that allows a small amount of product to be dispensed, with a tamper-evident child-resistant lid. Our 4 fl oz and 16 fl oz sizes come with a pressure sealed lid with a taper seal poly liner. These elegant bottles are the perfect way to protect light-sensitive liquids like essential oils, because the dark amber glass helps prevent light degradation. The 1 gallon sizes are packaged in metal containers with a swing handle on top.

Storage: Best stored away from light and heat. If stored properly, essential oils will maintain their maximum beneficial properties for many years, with a minimum 5 year shelf life.

Flower Waters

Starwest Flower Waters are lovely fragrances, naturally made with 100% pure essential oils and distilled water. They contain the essence of the plant in every drop, just like essential oils, but in a milder form. Flower Waters are great to naturally freshen the air instead of using aerosols, which can be harmful to the environment.

Packaging: The 4 fl oz sizes are packaged in alluring blue cobalt bottles with accompanying mist sprayer, and the 16 fl oz sizes are packaged in an elegant amber bottle with a pressure sealed lid. The dark cobalt and amber glass helps prevent light degradation, and protects light-sensitive liquids. Organic Lavender Dryer Bags

Bring Home the Scent of Lavender!

Our sachets are made with our premium quality Organic Extra Grade Lavender Flowers, giving these sachets a sweet floral aroma while imparting a clean and soothing fragrance.

Toss one bag in the dryer with your clothes and linens and create a gentle, soothing and relaxing Lavender scent. Each bag can be used up to ten times in the dryer, then sprinkle onto your carpet before vacuuming for a natural fresh air scent. They can also be used as natural deodorizers by tucking one bag into your pillow, shoes, drawers, or handbags to keep them smelling fresh!

Lavender

All grades of our Lavender are very fragrant with distinct flavors that become more subtle when used in an infusion such as a tea. All are perfectly suitable for culinary use, crafts, soap, oils, lotions, and shampoos.

Extra grade lavender has a slightly bitter, floral, grassy flavor enhanced by the aroma. The flowers have a little more green or blue-grey color compared to Select and Super, and also contains slightly more stems and leaves. This makes it a cost-effective alternative in culinary preparations and crafts that do not rely on visual presentation. Perfect for use in sachets and tinted containers.

Super grade lavender has a citrus-like taste, hints of sweetness and rosemary, and a stronger floral flavor. It is brighter and subtly peppery when raw. The color is rich and vibrant and contains the least amount of stems and leaves. With the abundance of flowers and buds, Super grade lavender is perfect for loose teas (especially if you intend to make a tea with only lavender, not as a blend) and in any application that calls for open or clear containers, such as potpourri, where the colors are sure to be prominent.

See all of our Lavender varieties on page 16.

Aloe Vera Juice is the undiluted pure liquid from the naturally occurring tissue directly under the green skin of the aloe barbadensis leaf. It contains many active components including vitamins, minerals, amino acids, and fatty acids, and is also one of the few plants that contains vitamin B12. To derive the Aloe inner leaf juice, a traditional process of hand filleting and extracting the valuable inner juice from the aloe leaf is used. Hand filleting requires delicate precision, and is done by skilled craftsmen. Their precision ensures it retains ample amounts of the useful components found in the aloe, and the removal of aloin (decolorizing) and other unwanted substances. It is filtered and processed with activated carbon. This processing technique ensures that the active constituents are preserved in maximum amounts, thus ensuring a high quality product. Contains less than 1% additives. Aloe has both internal and external applications, including beverages, food, dietary supplement formulations, personal care, and skin and body care products. Ingredients: Organic Aloe Vera Inner Leaf Juice, decolorized (Aloe barbadensis), citric acid, sodium benzoate. Definitions

Unrefined (Virgin) Oils: Left in its virgin state after pressing, these oils retain all of their beneficial nutrient and healthful properties, including a rich and robust, true, natural flavor and aroma. They tend to have a lower smoke point than refined oils and commonly used for low to medium heat applications. They are often more desirable when desiring a more potent aroma and flavor or more nutritional value in a recipe or body care product.

Refined Oils: Processed typically to have any potential impurities removed or filtered out, including flash fluctuations in temperatures, and may have slightly less of their true, potent flavor and aroma. These oils tend to have a higher smoke point than unrefined oils and are commonly used for medium to high heat applications. These oils are often used for body care products due to their less potent aroma and higher smoke point.

Cold Pressed Oils: Cold-press oil extraction involves crushing the seed, nut, or fruit, and forcing out the oil. There's no use of chemicals, and done while maintaining a lower temperature (under 90-100F), and without introducing supplemental heat. This is regarded as the best extraction method because it allows the oil to hold onto its true, subtle flavors and aroma that can be lost at higher temperatures.

About Our Vegetable Glycerin

Starwest premium quality Vegetable Glycerin is an amazing product whose unusual combination of properties has made it useful in a wide variety of applications. It is a clear, colorless, and odorless liquid with a sweet taste and consistency of a thick syrup.

- USP food grade
- Certified Kosher
- Gluten-free
- Vegan/Vegetarian

Production Process: Both conventional and organic Vegetable Glycerin are manufactured using the process of hydrolysis, which takes off the fatty acids, leaving pure vegetable glycerin.

- Our Conventional Vegetable Glycerin is derived from sustainable non-GMO vegetable palm oil and is produced using environmentally friendly practices.
- Our Organic Vegetable Glycerin is derived from organic vegetable soybean oil using environmentally friendly practices. Only non-gmo seeds are used. (Note: No soy proteins remain in the final product, therefore no allergen is present.)

Uses: Body + Skin Care: Vegetable Glycerin is also widely used as a humectant, a penetrant, and a softening agent in skin care products and soaps. The emollient and lubricating properties of glycerin make it effective anytime there is hardness, drying, or scaling of the skin. It is water and alcohol soluble, making it easy to work with.

- It is an effective ingredient in massage preparations, and it provides a soothing effect, making the skin supple and offering a protective action.
- It is commonly used in beauty products including makeup, mousse, shampoo, bubble bath, after shave, and deodorant.
- It is also used in some eye and ear drops, toothpastes, and dental care products.

Uses: Food + Beverages: Vegetable Glycerin is commonly used in food and beverages, is low in calories, and easily digested.

- The warm, sweet taste makes it an excellent substitute for sugar, and is used extensively in the preparation of coffee and tea flavors, and as an ingredient in soft drinks.
- It has many uses due to its malleability, and can be used in baked goods including cakes, cookies, candy, and fudge. You can add it to your cake batter to retain moistness for longer after it is baked. Its easy texture and sweet taste add a special touch without changing the taste of your baked goods. It can also help prevent sugar crystallization in candy.
- Bakers often use it when making homemade icing. It helps in thinning the icing and it can also be used to soften fondant, thus making it easier to work with.
- Its unique anti-fermentative properties also make it very useful in the production and preservation of herbal extracts, tinctures, and flavor extracts. It's a good choice for people who are sensitive to alcohol, as most liquid herbal and flavor extracts do contain alcohol.

Definitions

Unrefined (Virgin): Unrefined oils are left in their virgin state after pressing, thus retaining all of their beneficial nutrient and healthful properties, including being rich and robust with their true, natural flavors and aroma. They tend to have a lower smoke point than refined oils, and are more commonly used for low to medium heat applications and culinary dishes. They tend to be more desirable when one would like a more potent aroma and flavor, or more nutritional value in the recipe.

Refined: Refined oils are processed, typically have any potential impurities removed or filtered out (often using natural clays), including flash fluctuations in temperatures, and may have slightly less of their true, potent flavor and aroma. These oils tend to have a higher smoke point than unrefined oils, & are more commonly used for medium to high heat applications & culinary dishes. Refined oils are often used for body care products because of their less potent aroma and higher smoke point; and also for day-to-day cooking and higher heat culinary dishes such as stir frying or sautéing, as not to overpower the desired taste and aroma of the food itself.

Bleaching: This step is intended primarily to remove unwanted color from the oil, in addition to other undesirable materials such as sulfur compounds, trace metals, and soap. This is achieved by combining the oil with specific kinds of clay that have bleaching properties. (After bleaching, the media is removed.)

Deodorizing: Deodorizing is achieved by steaming the oils with extremely high temperatures in order to remove residual substances that may cause an unwanted taste or odor from the oil.

Cold Pressed: Extracting oil through cold-pressing involves crushing the seed, nut, or fruit, and forcing out the oil. It does not involve the use of chemicals, and is done while maintaining a relatively low temperature (under 90-100F), and without introducing supplemental heat. This process is regarded as the best extraction method because it allows the oil to hold onto its true, subtle flavors and aroma that can be lost at higher temperatures.

Expeller Pressed: A continuous feed method where the oil is squeezed from the raw vegetable material in a single step using friction and high pressure. The expeller pressed method can create some heat because of the high amounts of friction and added pressures involved, causing the material to heat up (usually around 120-200F). However, no supplemental heat is added in the process. Oils made with the expeller method are often still considered cold pressed and usually have a fairly undisturbed molecular state. Sometimes a cooling apparatus is also used to reduce the temperature and to protect certain nutritional properties of the oils being extracted. The expeller press process is typically used when additional pressure is required to extract the oil from the nut, seed, or fruit.

447068		Sunflower Oil, High Oleic, Refined	Organic	7.75	11.61	46.11	187.19

Our Organic High Oleic Sunflower Oil is derived by the expeller pressing of sun-ripened sunflower seeds (Helianthus annuus), then is refined, bleached, and deodorized. Our Refined Organic Sunflower Oil has a delicious, slightly nutty flavor. Sunflower Oil contains essential fatty acids, primarily oleic. The oleic acid content of this oil is typically found at levels between 75% and 90%, and makes the oil more stable and resistant to oxidation (rancidity). High Oleic Sunflower Oil can be a healthful alternative to saturated oils or hydrogenated oils in culinary dishes. It is a versatile, all-purpose oil that has a high smoke point, making it ideal for frying foods, stir-fry, sautéing, baking, or blending into dressings and sauces. It can also be used in baked goods instead of butter, margarine, or shortening and is an excellent replacement for regular cooking oil in your recipes. High oleic oils are also often used in packaged baked goods (packaged cakes, cookies, etc), as spray coating for cereal, crackers and dried fruit; and in non-dairy creamers. It contains vitamin E, and is a good carrier oil due to its moisturizing qualities. Also used in numerous applications as an emollient, and is commonly found in body and skin care products like soaps, creams, lotions, massage oils, and hair care products. Ingredients: Organic High Oleic Sunflower Oil (Helianthus annuus), Refined.

PLEASE NOTE: The PROP 65 warnings accurately reflect product warnings at the time of print, but are subject to change throughout the year. Current and up-to-date warnings are reflected on our website for each item.

What is Prop 65 about?

In 1986, the people of California passed a ballot initiative proposition called the Safe Drinking Water and Toxic Enforcement Act of 1986, now commonly known as "Prop 65", primarily designed to prevent dumping of toxic chemicals in California waters. However, it also required warnings on products that contain certain chemicals. While we certainly agree that keeping industrial chemicals out of food products is a good idea, that is not what Prop 65 does.

Prop 65 applies to any product or service received or used in California. As applied to foods, Prop 65 makes no distinction between natural and artificial products. And although it excludes "naturally occurring" chemicals in foods, that term does not include man-made pollutants that may end up in natural products through means outside of the manufacturer's control. Prop 65 does not distinguish between chemicals resulting from external sources like worldwide soil, water, and air pollution, pesticide over-spray or chemical leaks, which are then absorbed by plants, and those that are intentionally applied like synthetic fertilizers and pesticides or chemicals introduced later in drying, processing or manufacturing.

What types of chemicals require this warning?

Prop 65 applies to over 800 chemicals identified by the State of California as carcinogens and reproductive toxins. The list contains a wide range of naturally occurring and synthetic chemicals that are known to cause cancer or birth defects or other reproductive harm. These chemicals include additives or ingredients in pesticides, common household products, food, drugs, dyes, and solvents. Listed chemicals may also be used in manufacturing and construction, or they may be byproducts of chemical processes such as motor vehicle exhaust.

Prop 65 does not limit in any way, nor requires the disclosure of the amounts of chemicals that can be put into a product as long as the warning is given. It does set a "safe harbor" exposure level for many of the governed chemicals, below which no warning is required. Safe Harbor Levels are often much lower than those set by the FDA, EPA and WHO.

Comparison of the Prop 65 Standards vs National Standards

Let's use lead as an example. Lead is a naturally occurring element that is found in the environment, including soil. According to the EPA, natural levels of lead in soil can range between 50 parts per million (ppm) and 400 ppm. Human-spread lead contamination widens this range, of course, with reports of over 10,000 ppm in certain types of areas, such as industrial facilities. [Source 2]

- International standards for lead in dietary supplements and food are often set at no more than 5 ppm.
- The Prop 65 Safe Harbor Maximum Allowable Dose Level for lead is 0.5 micrograms per day, meaning that a person may not be exposed to lead above this amount, by any product, without a Prop 65 warning.

Setting aside the difficulties of translating this exposure level to a concentration level in a specific product, applying this standard to herbs and supplements means that lead content levels would need to be many times lower than federal levels in order for a product to be sold without a Prop 65 warning. Above the Safe Harbor Levels, a Prop 65 warning must be given to avoid lawsuits and potential liability.

When grown in soil with a relatively "low" lead content (500 ppm), spinach and radishes can have lead levels that exceed 3 ppm, while beets and carrots can exceed 6 ppm. [Source 3] Also, herbs may contain over 90% water by weight, so lead levels in dried herbs can be up to 10 times higher than their fresh counterparts. In addition, it is difficult to get root crops entirely free of the soil they are grown in. Under these circumstances, it is easy to see how it might be difficult to keep lead levels low in natural herbal products and especially in herbal root products.

For comparison:

Lead Prop 65 warning required at 0.5 micrograms/serving and higher.

FDA tolerable daily intake level:

- Adults: 75 micrograms
- Children: 6 micrograms

A 4oz. serving of nuts, Brussel sprouts, or spinach can deliver up to 10 micrograms of naturally occurring lead. Indeed, virtually all foods contain lead and other heavy metals. In a study by the European Food Safety Authority the estimated mean lifetime dietary exposure from all sources [Source 5] to lead was estimated to be almost 50 micrograms per day in the overall European adult population. This is 100 times the Prop 65 limit. As you can see the potential amount of lead exposure from herbs and spices is at most a small amount of the total exposure to lead for the average person.

When manufacturing herbal products, it is often impossible to meet Safe Harbor levels. When Safe Harbor levels cannot be met, Starwest applies the appropriate Prop 65 warning to its labels.

Should I be concerned about Starwest products?

A Prop 65 warning does not necessarily mean the product is dangerous. Starwest tests all its ingestible products for Lead, Cadmium, Mercury and Arsenic. Used properly, we believe our products pose no health risk. We apply the warning to protect our company from lawsuits by individuals and groups looking for businesses that allegedly do not comply with Prop 65.

For many herb and other food and supplement products it is impossible to both meet the Safe Harbor Levels and provide a realistic serving size, so the choice is to either put the warning on the label or discontinue selling many of our products.

What if I'm still concerned about lead or other heavy metals in herbs?

You can consider taking herbs in tea or extract form. Our testing of a variety of teas and liquid extracts indicates that heavy metals are not soluble or only slightly soluble in alcohol and water and the exposure to heavy metals is even less when using herbs in these forms.

Why do some herbal products have a warning and others don't?

While unlikely, it could be that the supplier has determined that their product falls within safe harbor rules. More likely, the supplier may not yet have implemented the warnings for their products yet, or they are not aware of the potential legal liability.

I do not live in California. Why am I receiving this warning?

The law applies to all products sold in California whether or not the manufacturer sells the product in California or intends for the product to be sold in California. We sell our products through distributors who may sell the product into California, so we cannot limit the labeling only to products/orders we ship directly to California.

STARWEST ENVIRONMENTAL PRACTICES AND SUSTAINABILITY

Environmental Practices

At Starwest, we are aware that all of the decisions we make on a daily basis have an impact on our environment, and we want to ensure that our impact is a positive one and that we are making every effort to reduce our carbon footprint. We do this by ensuring that our daily operations are in a manner consistent with the best environmental practices, from renewable energy to daily waste management.

We support our local utility's Greenery® program, which allows us to purchase power from renewable sources like wind, water, sun, and biomass. The goal of the Greenery® program is to build new, cleaner energy resources, and to reduce the need to build additional high-polluting power plants, thus creating a cleaner environment.

Eco-Friendly Shipment Packing

We are committed to eco-friendly shipping and packing solutions, and we package and ship our products to prevent damage and optimize space efficiency. Our objective at Starwest is to use materials (whenever possible) made from renewable materials that are recyclable and biodegradable.

We are making very exciting changes to our shipping and packing materials, which is to reduce much of our plastic as packing material for shipments. We have eliminated the use of bubble wrap, and the paper we replaced it with offers similar cushioning and padded protection, and is naturally biodegradable, compostable, SFI-certified, and fully recyclable.

Paper

The paper we use in our annual catalog is FSC Certified (Forest Stewardship Council) and recycled (30% recycled and 10% post-consumer waste). FSC certification ensures that products come from responsibly managed forests that provide environmental, social, and economic benefits. The ink we use in our catalog contains a high concentration of mixed vegetable oils (is not a petroleum solvent based ink), and makes the print process even more environmentally friendly and sustainable.

Recycling and Waste

We believe in the preservation of our planet, and for a healthier, cleaner world for generations to come. Every year we strive to improve our environmental practices and waste management program. For more details on our recycling, see <https://wholesale.starwest-botanicals.com/content/environmental-awareness.html>.

Our objective with our waste management program has been to maximize our recycling efforts and effectively use our materials, including minimizing our waste and reducing greenhouse gas emissions. We have clearly marked containers in work areas for all RECYCLABLE materials.

We Support Sustainable Organic Farming

Did you know that sustainable organic farming practices can produce crops without depleting our earth's resources or polluting the environment? Yes, that's right, it can really make a difference! Here at Starwest, we support sustainable organic farming practices. It helps the consumer by ensuring clean, natural, chemical-free products, and it helps preserve the land where the plants are grown or found.

A Passion for Sustainability

Starwest is committed to selling premium quality natural products while preserving the environment and making a more sustainable planet. Our passion for health and well-being also extends to the health of the planet we all share. We conduct our business in a way that allows us to maintain our standard of environmental dedication, with commitments to sustainable and organic farming and caring for the environment. We are strongly committed to the organic industry and have worked for the advancement of sustainable organic agriculture since 1980, which was actually long before it was a popular idea, and an entire decade before the USDA National Organic Program was even established. We are proud to offer an increasingly large selection of certified organic botanicals, herbs, spices, teas, liquid herbal extracts, essential oils, and more.

Certified Organic Processor

We are continually developing and maintaining long-term, mutually beneficial partnerships with suppliers and growers who are committed to sustainable and organic farming practices. All of our certified organic products are grown and harvested in accordance with the USDA National Organic Program. Our products and manufacturing facility are both Certified Organic by Quality Assurance International (QAI).

Certified Organic Product Sales

We are committed to increasing the amount of certified organic products we offer each year, and our new products are launched as organic whenever possible. We do also like to offer conventional alternatives in many of our product lines and allow our customers to choose between them.

Kosher Certified Facility

Starwest Botanicals is a Certified Kosher facility, certified by "Kosher Certification Services", located in Los Angeles, CA.

Ethically Wildcrafted and Harvested Plants

We make every effort to source and select ingredients from natural renewable sources and are dedicated to the conservation of plants and the preservation of their natural habitat. We support sustainable wild collection practices to protect species from becoming endangered. We are a member of United Plant Savers, a non-profit organization that helps spread the word on endangered and at risk plant species.

Fair Trade

We continue to offer a selection of Fair Trade Teas certified by Fair Trade USA, an independent non-profit organization. Fair Trade raises income and living standards for tea farmers overseas, while helping to protect the environment by investing in their farms and communities. For consumers, Fair Trade offers a powerful way to reduce poverty through their everyday shopping. The Fair Trade Certified™ logo you will see on our product labels guarantees you are receiving a superior quality product, farmers and workers received a fair price for their product, and eco-friendly practices were used in crop production.
