STARWEST[®]

EST BOTANICALS 1975

Dear Friends,

As we turn the pages of our catalog together, I'm reminded of the many hands, hearts, and stories that bring our products to life. At Starwest Botanicals, every herb, every spice, every blend is part of a journey that stretches across continents, into small villages, over hillsides, and through fields where the earth's gifts are cultivated with care and reverence.

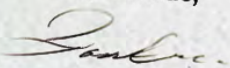

We are a family—not just those of us here at Starwest, but a global family of partners, farmers, wild crafters, and artisans. Many of our farmers nurture their two hectares of land as one might tend a beloved garden, growing their crops organically and sustainably. Our wild crafters move gently through forests and meadows, hand-picking flowers, herbs, and spices that can only be found in the wild. Their knowledge is ancient, their touch is light, and their respect for nature is woven into every petal, leaf, and root they gather.

When you enjoy our Vietnamese cinnamon, you're tasting the legacy of Hmong villages in the remote hills of northern Vietnam. These communities nurture their cinnamon trees for decades, tending to each one with care and intention. Every harvest is a testament to their patience, tradition, and deep connection to the land—resulting in the rich, spicy cinnamon that's now in your hands. When you open a bag of our spices, you're sharing in the story of a family in the mountains of Turkey or a cooperative in the highlands of Peru. Every product is a bridge, a connection between your kitchen and the world.

Supporting our community is at the heart of what we do. We believe in lifting up the voices of those whose hands that work the soil, whose feet walk the fields, and whose spirits are deeply connected to their craft. Our commitment is not only to bring you the highest quality botanicals but also to honor the people and the planet behind them.

We hope this catalog is more than a guide—it's an invitation to be part of this story and connect with a world that is as vibrant and diverse as the flavors we share.

With gratitude,

Brian Jansen
CEO, Starwest Botanicals

Exciting Updates to Our Products & 2025 Wholesale Catalog

For nearly 50 years, Starwest Botanicals has been dedicated to bringing you the highest quality herbs, spices, and teas. As part of our ongoing commitment to sustainability, innovation, and serving you better, we're making a few key updates to our product offerings and wholesale catalog.

Discontinued Products & Special Offers – Stock Up While You Can!

To focus on our core product lines and strengthen our partnerships with organic growers, we're streamlining our selection. While some items will be discontinued, we will continue to offer over 1,500 premium organic products.

In the coming weeks, we'll be listing a collection of discontinued items on our website with special discounts as we sell through our remaining inventory. This is a great opportunity to stock up on select products while supplies last!

We appreciate your loyalty and trust and look forward to growing together.

A More Flexible, Digital-First Wholesale Catalog

Why the Change?

We're moving to a digital first catalog with quarterly price updates to ensure you always have the most accurate and up-to-date information.

How Will This Work?

Our digital catalog will be available for download on our website and emailed to all wholesale customers.

Quarterly updates will ensure pricing and product details are always current.

Why Won't Pricing Be Included?

To keep pricing as current as possible, we're removing prices from the catalog and instead providing quarterly price updates via email—so you always have the most current.

Why You'll Love the Digital-First Wholesale Catalog

- More Flexibility – Product updates can be refreshed more frequently.
- Eco-friendly – Reduces paper waste, aligning with our eco-friendly mission.
- Easier Access – Easily searchable and available anytime, anywhere.

At Starwest, we are always evolving to meet our customers' needs while staying true to our commitment to quality, sustainability, and service. We appreciate your continued partnership and are here to support you through these changes.

Thank you for being part of the Starwest family!

Grow your dreams!™

At Starwest, our dream is cultivating an organic and regenerative planet. We envision a world where we nurture the earth as much as it nourishes us, leaving behind a legacy of sustainability and abundance. With our Grow Your Dreams™ campaign, we welcome you to be a part of the movement to regenerate our ecosystem.

When you scan the QR code below and enter your details, you will receive a postcard brimming with wildflower seeds – ready to sow directly into the earth. Together, we're nurturing the earth, revitalizing pollinator habitats, and fostering the growth of our collective dreams. Join us in creating a better world, one seed at a time.

These special seed papers are crafted from recycled paper waste and contain embedded wildflower seeds, with an estimated density of approximately 10 seeds per square inch.

Plant a little magic-scan to receive your own wildflower seed cards and share the love with Mother Earth.

Share your dreams!™

When you receive your card, inscribe your dreams and your most cherished aspirations on the card, photograph if before sowing, mention us @starwest-botanicals, and let's grow dreams side by side.
#GrowYourDreamsSWB

Then plant the card and marvel as your dreams take root, blossoming into reality through the vibrant wildflowers that breathe new life into the earth.

Planting this card is a simple process. Just bury it approximately 1/8" deep in an outdoor planter or garden, ensuring the soil remains adequately moist and receives plenty of sunlight. Then, witness the transformation as these seeds sprout into vibrant wildflowers. As a bonus, the paper itself will naturally biodegrade, leaving no trace of waste behind – only an enchanting display of wildflowers for your local pollinators to cherish.

You'll also find simple, down-to-earth tips to help you grow and care for your seeds with confidence.

About Our Packaging

To preserve freshness, aroma and potency, all of our botanicals, herbs, spices, gourmet salts, and teas, are packaged in 1 lb polyfoil bags with a re-sealable zipper closure (exceptions noted), protecting the contents from light exposure and moisture. In addition, our most popular varieties are also offered in convenient 4 oz stand-up pouches with a re-sealable zipper closure and are now included in this section. Attractive and informative labels include description, with both the common and botanical names, origin, applicable organic and kosher information, ingredients, safety guidelines, net weight, lot number, and UPC code.

Please note: The country of origin for our botanicals, herbs, and spices are subject to change throughout the year. Current and up-to-date origins are reflected on our website. Due to current restrictions, there may be weekly quantity limits on certain items. Please check with our Customer Care Team if you are looking to place a large order.

From Farm to Table

The Story Behind Our Cilantro, Dill, Olive Leaf & Parsley

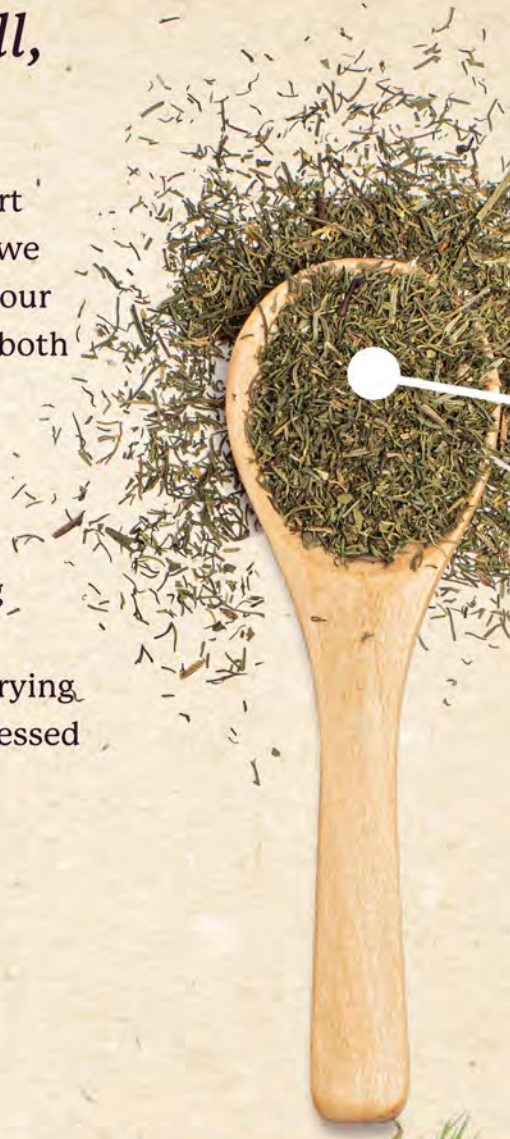

At Starwest Botanicals, we believe that high-quality herbs start with dedicated farmers and sustainable practices. That's why we source our cilantro, dill weed, olive leaf, and parsley leaf from our partner in Tunisia—a pioneering herb producer committed to both quality and community impact.

Supporting Communities in Tunisia

Our trusted partner in Tunisia built their company with a mission—to benefit rural communities in Tunisia by providing employment opportunities in areas where jobs are scarce. By working with local farmers and investing in state-of-the-art drying technology, they ensure that every herb is harvested and processed with exceptional care.

What makes them so special?

-  Advanced German mechanical driers preserve color and quality better than traditional sun drying.
-  Minimized time from harvest to drying to maintain peak freshness.
-  Fields located near drying facilities to prevent degradation.
-  Breathable containers for transport to prevent heat buildup and maintain herb integrity.

A Closer Look at Our Herbs

Cilantro (Coriandrum sativum)

Cilantro is a bright, citrusy herb packed with flavor and nutrition. It's a staple in global cuisines, enhancing dishes like salsa, guacamole, curries, soups, and marinades. Beyond the kitchen, cilantro is rich in antioxidants and traditionally used for digestive support and natural cleansing. *

Dill Weed (Anethum graveolens)

Dill weed brings a fresh, tangy flavor and is a staple in Mediterranean, Eastern European, and Indian cooking. It's perfect for soups, salads, fish, vegetables, pickles, and yogurt-based sauces. Dill is also known in herbal traditions for supporting digestion and gut health. *

Olive Leaf (Olea europaea)

Harvested from the same tree that gives us olives, olive leaf has been used in traditional wellness practices for centuries. It contains oleuropein, a powerful polyphenol known for its antioxidant and immune-supporting benefits. Olive leaf is commonly found in teas, tinctures, and supplements. *

Parsley Leaf (Petroselinum crispum)

Mild yet nutrient-dense, parsley is rich in vitamins and antioxidants. It adds freshness and balance to soups, sauces, salads, meats, and herb blends like pesto and chimichurri. Herbalists also value parsley for its digestive-supporting properties. *

Bringing Freshness & Wellness to Your Table

By choosing Starwest Botanicals, you're not only getting premium, sustainably sourced herbs—you're also supporting small farmers and responsible harvesting practices. Whether in the kitchen or in your wellness routine, our cilantro, dill, olive leaf, and parsley bring vibrant flavor and natural benefits to every moment.

Spices with a Purpose

The Story Behind Our Ceylon Cinnamon, Cloves, White Pepper, and Nutmeg

At Starwest Botanicals, we believe that high-quality spices start with dedicated farmers and sustainable practices. That's why we source several of our premium spices—including cloves, Ceylon cinnamon, white pepper, and nutmeg—from our partner in Sri Lanka.

Our partner has a cooperative of over 3,000 small-scale, marginalized farmers who work together to cultivate organic, sustainable crops. Beyond farming, they provide essential education, financial support, homebuilding materials to improve farmers' living conditions, and sustainable farming inputs to support soil health, along with agricultural resources to empower these farmers and their families. They are committed to helping its members thrive both on and off the farm.

After harvest, our processing partner in Sri Lanka, carefully dries, cleans, steam-sterilizes, and mills these spices. All materials are traceable back to the field, ensuring the highest quality and transparency.

A Closer Look at Cloves and White Pepper

Cloves are prized for their bold, aromatic flavor and rich essential oil content. Ours are hand-selected for superior quality, ensuring that only the best buds make it into your spice rack.

White pepper, known for its earthy heat and smooth finish, undergoes a rigorous color-sorting process to ensure only the finest peppercorns are used. Unlike black pepper, white pepper comes from fully ripened pepper berries, which are soaked to remove the outer skin—resulting in a milder, yet complex flavor.

Keeping It Fresh: The Careful Journey of Ceylon Cinnamon

Ceylon cinnamon, often called "true cinnamon," is shipped in refrigerated containers to preserve freshness. This prevents excess moisture and temperature fluctuations, which can cause cinnamaldehyde (the key flavor compound in cinnamon) to break down into styrene—a compound that smells like paint thinner. This extra step ensures you receive the freshest, most aromatic cinnamon possible.

The Art of Harvesting Nutmeg

Nutmeg is carefully hand-picked—not gathered from the ground—to prevent mold and aflatoxin formation. Allowing nutmegs to fall naturally can expose them to decaying leaf litter, increasing the risk of contamination. Hand-harvesting ensures pure, potent nutmeg with an unmistakable warm, sweet aroma.

Why It Matters

By choosing Starwest Botanicals, you're not just bringing premium, organic spices into your kitchen—you're supporting sustainable farming, fair trade practices, and the hardworking farmers of Sri Lanka. Together, we're keeping time-honored traditions alive while ensuring a better future for small-scale farmers.

Ginseng Roots and Powders

Chinese Red Ginseng is often thought of as more “warming” and invigorating, while Chinese White Ginseng is considered more “cooling” and calming. Both types are carefully dried using a mix of shade and sun—but Red Ginseng takes it a step further. Before it’s fully dried, it’s steamed, which deepens its color and gives it those extra warming qualities.

Organic Blazing Cider Blend

Our Organic Blazing Cider is our unique take on the beloved apple cider vinegar tonic known as “Fire Cider.” It’s a bold, tasty blend of organic herbs and spices—like ginger, cayenne, and turmeric—that brings just the right amount of heat and comfort. Sip it as a zesty wellness shot, mix it into your favorite drink, or splash it into meals for a flavorful boost. However you enjoy it, this spirited elixir is a simple, natural way to support your well-being all year long.

What is Fire Cider exactly?

The original “Fire Cider” was created in the 1980s by herbalist Rosemary Gladstar—a zesty blend of kitchen herbs like garlic, onion, hot peppers, and more, steeped in apple cider vinegar and sweetened with a touch of honey. Rosemary taught the recipe at the California School of Herbal Studies and shared it in her first book, inspiring generations to make this simple, affordable, and delicious wellness tonic at home.

Over the years, fire cider has taken on many forms, with people adding their own twist to the classic. Rosemary always encouraged creativity, and we do too! Feel free to personalize our Organic Blazing Cider by adding your favorite (fresh or dried) herbs and spices—make it your own flavorful, feel-good tradition.

210351	-01	Sea Salt, Alaea	Fine Grind	United States

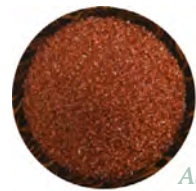

Alaea is the traditional Hawaiian table salt used to season and preserve foods. Alaea is non-processed and is rich in trace minerals, all found in the sea water. A small amount of the natural mineral "Alae" (volcanic baked red clay) enriches the salt with iron-oxide, seals in the moisture, and adds flavor while also giving the salt its distinctively attractive red color. The Hawaiian clay gives the salt a subtle, earthy flavor with a slightly mellower taste than regular sea salt. Alaea is perfect for making tasty spice blends and rubs for meat, and particularly brings out the flavor when roasting or grilling the meat. It's perfect for pork loin, Kalua Pig, steak, and is also the traditional and authentic seasoning for the native Hawaiian dishes Jerky and Poke.

Black and Oolong Teas – Contains Caffeine

Black Teas are fully oxidized (fermented), before being heated and dried, giving it a rich, deep flavor and a dark red-brown hue when brewed. It offers a bold, full-bodied taste with more caffeine than green or white tea—but still less than coffee.

Oolong Tea is partially fermented, striking a perfect balance between the rich depth of black tea and the fresh vibrancy of green tea. With varying levels of oxidation, it offers a wide range of flavors and aromas, from light and floral to bold and toasty. Smooth and full-bodied, oolong typically has less caffeine than black tea but more than green.

				Da Hong Pao is one of the most famous oolong teas in the world. It comes from the famous Wuyi Mountains in the Fujian Province of China. It is one of 5 'Rock Teas', meaning the teas are grown in more rocky areas making the mineral content in the soil much denser. This is what gives the 5 rock teas their signature flavors. This very full-bodied, roasty flavored tea has a very particular sweetness to it and is reminiscent of baked goods or molasses.

401440	-01			Pu-erh Yellow Tea		Organic	China
				Pu-erh is produced in the Yunnan province of China, and is a unique and unusual slightly aged tea that is famed for its medicinal qualities. This tea is generally aged for six months to one year, and approximates the result of the long-aged Pu-erh tea process. It is unusual because unlike other teas, it uses an accelerated fermentation process called The Wo Dui (wet-piling) process, which involves piling, dampening, and turning the tea leaves. This process ensures even fermentation. Pu-erh is the most oxidized form of tea and can mellow and improve with age like fine wine. It produces a dark red liquor with a full-bodied, earthy taste.

Green and White Teas – Contains Caffeine

Green Tea has long been cherished for its wellness benefits, thanks to its rich blend of antioxidants, vitamins, and minerals—including vitamin C, B vitamins, riboflavin, niacin, and folic acid. Naturally energizing yet gentle, it contains about 20–30% of the caffeine found in a cup of coffee, making it a milder alternative to black tea.

White Tea undergoes minimal processing—its delicate leaves are simply withered and dried. This gentle approach helps preserve high levels of antioxidants, polyphenols, and vitamins while keeping caffeine content lower than other tea varieties. The result is a light, smooth, and naturally nourishing brew.

401309	-01			Bancha Tea	Organic	China
				Plucked and produced according to ancient Japanese tradition, this is the tea to recommend the next time you're asked for something easy drinking, at any time of day. In Japan, Bancha's ancestral home, this grassy green brew has long been considered the journeyman of teas and is the cup of tea most commonly consumed. Bancha itself is notable for the fact that it is plucked from the same bushes as Sencha, arguably the best-known Japanese variety on the international stage. The difference is that the leaves used to produce Bancha are typically plucked and harvested later, after Sencha season, resulting in a coarser appearance that often includes some stalk and stem. The coarse quality of the loose leaf gives the tea a unique character, milder infusion and lowered caffeine and tannin levels compared to many finer grade green teas. Bancha Tea has a light, refreshing flavor, with a mildly vegetal finish. It's your everyday drink: toasty, energetic, and strong.

Tea Grade Information

Tea grades are a way that teas can be ranked or categorized. A grade can refer to several things, including the shape of the tea leaf, the size of the leaf, and the time of year it was picked. It is important to understand that grading terms only give information about the appearance and size of the leaf, and one main purpose of grading and sorting is to ensure the uniformity of the leaf size.

The grade can also reflect the caffeine content of a tea. Because younger leaf buds contain more caffeine than mature leaves, teas like T.G.F.O.P. can contain more caffeine than F.O.P. or O.P. grades. How the tea is actually prepared also plays an important role in the caffeine content in a cup. Everything from the amount of tea used, to water temperature and brewing time, to whether the leaves are steeped loose, in strainer, or a tea bag, becomes a factor. In general though, more tea, hotter water, and longer steeping can all contribute to more caffeine per cup.

While tea grades can be an important factor, grades are not the only factors that determine the quality and price of a tea, and it can really be a combination of things. Both quality and price can also be affected by where the tea is grown, the conditions it's grown in, and the cultivation and processing methods.

Common Leaf and Grade Descriptions:

Flowery Orange Pekoe (F.O.P.) refers to a high quality whole leaf tea with a long leaf and good balance of tips. F.O.P. contains fine, tender young leaves with buds (referred to as tips) and is made from the first two leaves and bud of the shoot. When harvested during the slow growth periods, these young buds have a golden tip, hence the grade 'Flowery', thus making it Flowery Orange Pekoe (F.O.P.).

Tippy Golden Flowery Orange Pekoe (T.G.F.O.P.) is F.O.P. with a larger amount of tips. When these tips are in abundance, the terms 'Tippy and Golden' are attached to F.O.P., thus making it Tippy Golden Flowery Orange Pekoe. T.G.F.O.P. is the top grade of O.P. tea.

Orange Pekoe (O.P.) is a high quality grade whole leaf tea that does not usually contain tips and consists of many whole, thin and wiry tea leaves of a uniform size. Usually harvested when the end buds open into a leaf, and picked later than F.O.P.

Broken Orange Pekoe (B.O.P.) is the next grade below Orange Pekoe, which designates a smaller, broken leaf. When crushed to make bagged teas, the tea is referred to as "Broken" (B).

Bulk Tea Bags

For a little extra convenience, we've packaged some of our most popular loose teas into easy-to-use paper tea bags – no measuring, no fuss, just pure tea enjoyment. We're thoughtful about every detail, right down to the tea bag itself. Ours are made from a specially selected blend of manila hemp (sourced from the leaf stalks of the abacá plant), cellulose, and thermoplastic fibers. That means they're strong, durable, and hold up beautifully in hot water.

Best of all, our tea bag paper is free from dyes, adhesives, and glue. It's oxygen-bleached (never with chlorine), which means no dioxins – and it's also non-GMO, allergen-free, and contains no epichlorohydrin. Just clean, simple materials you can feel good about steeping. The round tea bag size is 2.75" D.

Please note: Approximate # of tea bags (see below) per package can vary due to fill weight, type, and cut of herb.

Matcha Tea – Contains Caffeine

Matcha is a special kind of green tea made from shade-grown leaves that are carefully stone-ground into a fine, vibrant powder. It has a smooth, refreshing taste with a hint of natural sweetness, a rich green color, and a luxuriously silky texture.

Traditionally, Matcha is prepared with a bit of ceremony – whisked to a frothy finish in a matcha bowl using a bamboo spoon and whisk. It's a mindful, nourishing ritual that brings a moment of calm with every cup.

Item#	1lb	4oz	Safety	Description	Features	Botanical Name	Origin
401433*	-51	-54		Matcha Tea Powder Ingredients: Organic Matcha Green Tea powder. Fair Trade Certified by Fair Trade USA™.	Organic Fair Trade	Camellia sinsensis	China
401384	-51	-54		Matcha Tea Powder Our Organic and Fair Trade Matcha Tea are both culinary grade matchas. They make a delicious tea, and are often used in cooking and baking. Culinary grade matcha is a very high quality tea, just with a slightly different flavor profile than ceremonial grade matcha. Culinary grade matcha isn't necessarily a lower quality product than ceremonial grade matcha, it's just prepared differently for a different use – and it features different characteristics. It has a more robust flavor than ceremonial grade matcha, is slightly less sweet, with more bitter notes. It tastes delicious as an iced tea, the traditional hot tea, and makes wonderful green tea lattes and matcha smoothies. Its enhanced flavor profile pairs perfectly with other flavors, and it is a versatile ingredient commonly used in a variety of sweets and baked good recipes, including ice cream, pies, mousse, cupcakes, shortbread cookies, and pancakes.	Organic	Camellia sinsensis	China
401389*	-51	-54		Matcha Tea Powder, Ceremonial Grade Sipped for centuries in the traditional Japanese tea ceremony, ceremonial grade matcha is the highest quality green tea powder available. Ceremonial grade matcha is made from the youngest shade grown tea leaves, with the stems and veins entirely removed. The leaves are stone-ground, which makes the matcha suitable for a thick-style tea. It is the perfect choice to use in the Japanese tea ceremony. This premium grade is vibrant green in color with a smooth, refreshing, slightly sweet and mildly rich flavor, with a silky texture. It makes a delicious tea!	Organic	Camellia sinsensis	China

Matcha Whisk

A traditional matcha whisk – known as a chasen – is an essential tool for preparing a smooth, frothy bowl of matcha. Handcrafted from bamboo, it's designed to gently blend matcha powder into water, creating that signature creamy texture and vibrant green foam. Each whisk comes with a clear storage case and a handy stand to help maintain its shape and keep it in top form between uses. It's the perfect companion for bringing a little matcha ritual into your daily routine.

Elderberries:

A Timeless Tradition of Wellness

At Starwest Botanicals, we believe that the best ingredients come from the best sources. That's why we take great pride in offering high-quality elderberries, carefully harvested from trusted wildcrafters in Bulgaria and Croatia. Not only do these partnerships ensure peak freshness and potency, but they also provide meaningful work to local farmers and collectors who have been tending these wild-growing berries for generations.

A Tradition of Quality

Elderberries have been cherished for centuries for their deep purple hue, rich flavor, and remarkable wellness benefits. Packed with antioxidants and immune-supporting properties, these berries have long been a staple in teas, syrups, and tinctures. *

Our wildcrafted elderberries grow naturally across the mountains of Bulgaria and Croatia, where they are hand-harvested with care. We work closely with a network of small-scale collectors who follow traditional, sustainable methods to gather these berries at their peak ripeness. From there, they undergo a meticulous process to ensure exceptional quality and purity.

The Journey from Harvest to You

Once harvested, our elderberries go through a series of careful processing steps to maintain their integrity:

-  Mechanical drying to preserve nutrients and flavor
-  Moisture and water activity control to prevent mold and microbial growth
-  Physical cleaning using sizing sieves, air aspiration, gravity separators, active metal detection, and high-speed, camera-based optical sorting.
-  Steam sterilization for an extra level of purity

These rigorous standards ensure that every batch of Starwest elderberries meets our commitment to excellence.

Bringing You the Best of Nature

At Starwest, quality is our priority. Every batch of elderberries is rigorously tested for purity, ensuring you receive nothing, but the finest nature has to offer. Whether you're steeping a comforting cup of elderberry tea or making your own homemade syrup, you can trust that our elderberries are as vibrant and nourishing as the traditions they come from.

By choosing Starwest elderberries, you're not just investing in your well-being, you're supporting time-honored farming traditions and the communities that bring this extraordinary fruit to life. Together, we can continue sharing the power of elderberries for generations to come.

Explore the goodness of elderberries with Starwest Botanicals!

LIQUID HERBAL & FLAVOR EXTRACTS

About Our Liquid Herbal Extracts

Certified Organic and Wildcrafted Varieties:

We make our liquid extracts and tinctures with premium quality organically grown or ethically wildcrafted herbs. Our Certified Organic varieties are all grown in compliance with the National Organic Program and Certified Organic by Quality Assurance International (QAI). We follow strict guidelines to ensure that all herbs ethically wildcrafted are free of environmental contaminants, and that rare and endangered species continue to survive in their natural habitat.

Quality Control: All of our herbs and botanicals used in our liquid herbal extracts and formulas are tested for a variety of specifications in our Quality Control Laboratory, including identity and purity, along with a number of other additional tests. We are committed to stringent quality control inspection procedures, and our experienced technicians hand select only superior quality herbs and botanicals for extraction.

Extraction Process for Herbal Extracts:

We use a cold process method that extracts the maximum amount of vitamins, minerals and active constituents of the herb, and the certified organic alcohol base we use acts as an excellent preservative, maintaining the integrity of the herb. Our liquid herbal extracts have an herb strength of 1 to 1, which means 8 lbs. of dried herb are used to make 1 gallon of extract, with a standard 30% alcohol content.

Packaging: To preserve and maintain their beneficial properties for years, all of our herbal extracts are packaged in light-resistant, dark glass amber bottles. The 4 fl oz. sizes come with a pressure-sealed lid and taper-sealed poly liner. These elegant bottles are the perfect way to protect light-sensitive liquids because the dark amber glass helps prevent light degradation.

Storage: When properly stored in our amber bottles in a cool, dark place, avoiding heat, sunlight and exposure to air, our liquid herbal extracts will last a minimum of five years.

447019	-03	-05	-07	-08		Black Cumin Seed Oil, Virgin	Organic

Our Organic Black Cumin Seed Oil is cold pressed from the Nigella sativa seed, thus retaining all of its valuable nutrients. This remarkable “black seed” has had a very rich traditional history over the centuries, containing over 100 compounds, including vitamins, trace elements, antioxidants, and essential fatty acids. The active constituent in Black Cumin is Nigellone, which is responsible for many of its therapeutic properties. It has a spicy, pungent, nutty flavor and aroma with notes of black peppercorns, and is commonly used in ethnic foods, herbal teas, candies, and liquors. It can be used instead of pepper on meat dishes, and in soups and stews, and can be drizzled over vegetables, salads, and poultry. Black Cumin Oil is also widely used in the skin care industry as an ingredient in skin care creams because of its nutritive properties that may be helpful for a variety of common skin complaints, and is also ideal for promoting healthy skin, hair, and nails. Ingredients: Organic Black Cumin Seed Oil (Nigella sativa), Virgin.

447022	-03	-05	-07	-08		Castor Oil, Virgin	Organic

Castor Oil is cold pressed from the seeds of the Castor Plant (Ricinus communis), thus retaining its valuable nutrients. It is heavier in texture than other vegetable oils, yet very mild and odorless. Castor oil has an unusual chemical composition: it is a triglyceride, comprised of fatty acids, of which 85%-95% is ricinoleic acid, and the fatty acids are thought to be responsible for castor oil's unique properties. Castor Oil has a variety of uses, from pharmaceuticals to cosmetics and skin care products. Modern non-medicinal uses for castor oil include being used as a food additive, and as a potential mold inhibitor. It has an emollient effect, and can be used as an ingredient in skin care products and cosmetics, including massage oils and creams, and hair care products. Ingredients: Organic Castor Oil (Ricinus communis), Virgin.

447050	-05	-07	-08			Olive Oil, Extra Virgin	Organic

Our Organic Extra Virgin Olive Oil is cold pressed from the finest quality fruit of olive trees (Olea europaea), preserving the highest levels of flavor and nutrients. Its taste is slightly fruity and mildly peppery, with a Mediterranean flavor. Olive oil is valued for its content of squalene, a lipid that's known as a natural moisturizer which is found in small amounts in many vegetable oils, but especially in olive oil. It contains triglycerides, with the main fatty acid being monounsaturated fat. It is a full-bodied, all-purpose olive oil, and is perfectly suited for low to medium heat dishes. It is excellent for sautéing, and delicious when used in salad dressings, sauces, spreads, and can be drizzled over seafood and vegetables before baking or grilling. It also makes a tasty dipping sauce for bread when mixed with balsamic vinegar or a spice blend. Extra Virgin Olive Oil contains antioxidants, including vitamin E, making it a very nourishing oil for the skin. It nourishes, rejuvenates, and protects the skin, and is often used in cosmetic applications, creating a soothing product that is easily absorbed by the skin. It's often used in hair and nail treatments, and can even be added to your bath water, making your skin soft and smooth. Ingredients: Organic Olive Oil (Olea europaea), Extra Virgin.

447068	-07					Sunflower Oil, High Oleic, Refined	Organic

Our Organic High Oleic Sunflower Oil is derived by the expeller pressing of sun-ripened sunflower seeds (Helianthus annuus), then is refined, bleached, and deodorized. Our Refined Organic Sunflower Oil has a delicious, slightly nutty flavor. Sunflower Oil contains essential fatty acids, primarily oleic. The oleic acid content of this oil is typically found at levels between 75% and 90%, and makes the oil more stable and resistant to oxidation (rancidity). High Oleic Sunflower Oil can be a healthful alternative to saturated oils or hydrogenated oils in culinary dishes. It is a versatile, all-purpose oil that has a high smoke point, making it ideal for frying foods, stir-fry, sautéing, baking, or blending into dressings and sauces. It can also be used in baked goods instead of butter, margarine, or shortening and is an excellent replacement for regular cooking oil in your recipes. High oleic oils are also often used in packaged baked goods (packaged cakes, cookies, etc), as spray coating for cereal, crackers and dried fruit; and in non-dairy creamers. It contains vitamin E, and is a good carrier oil due to its moisturizing qualities. Also used in numerous applications as an emollient, and is commonly found in body and skin care products like soaps, creams, lotions, massage oils, and hair care products. Ingredients: Organic High Oleic Sunflower Oil (Helianthus annuus), Refined.

Golden Goodness:

The Story Behind Starwest's Turmeric

At Starwest Botanicals, we believe that the best turmeric starts with dedicated farmers who care for their land and their communities. That's why we proudly source our turmeric from an organization that has been empowering small-scale farmers in the Western Ghats of India for over 40 years.

Supporting Sustainable Farming & Communities

Their organization is more than just a supplier—it's a lifeline for 2,000 small-scale, marginalized farmers, helping them achieve organic certification and farm sustainably. Through training, education, and hands-on support, our supplier enables these farmers to cultivate a diverse range of organic spices, including black pepper, cloves, ginger, and turmeric, all thriving side by side in the lush, mountainous region of the Western Ghats. Every batch of turmeric is fully traceable back to the field level, ensuring the highest quality and transparency.

Beyond farming, they provide essential services to its cooperative members, including: accounting and financial support, agricultural advising and testing, homebuilding materials to improve farmers' living conditions, and sustainable farming inputs to support soil health. They also have educational programs (essentially a school on site) that farmers participate in hands on sessions to learn about vermiculture, organic input creation, and more.

From Farm to You: The Journey of Our Turmeric

Once harvested, the turmeric rhizomes go through a meticulous processing journey to preserve their vibrant color and rich benefits. It is collected fresh from farmers, washed, boiled and polished for purity; then sliced, sundried, and steam sterilized for safety. The dried slices are then milled to size (sliced, cut and sifted, tea bag cut, and powder). This entire process happens at the source, allowing more of the profits to return directly to the farmers and the local grower-processor community.

The Starwest Difference

Our turmeric naturally contains 2-4% curcumin—the vibrant, golden compound behind its rich color and time-honored wellness benefits. For thousands of years, this warm, earthy spice has been a cornerstone of natural health, cherished for its powerful antioxidants and potential immune-supporting properties. *

With its slightly peppery taste, subtle bitterness, and gentle ginger-like aroma, turmeric brings depth and warmth to countless dishes. A staple in Indian, Middle Eastern, and Southeast Asian cuisines, it's the perfect way to add both flavor and wellness to your kitchen.

PRO TIP:

Turmeric's active compound, curcumin, is better absorbed when paired with black pepper and healthy fats (like olive or coconut oil). So, spice up your meals with a little extra goodness!

By choosing Starwest Botanicals turmeric, you're not just adding a vibrant, earthy spice to your kitchen—you're supporting small farmers, sustainable agriculture, and a brighter future for farming families in India.

PLEASE NOTE: The PROP 65 warnings accurately reflect product warnings at the time of print, but are subject to change throughout the year. Current and up-to-date warnings are reflected on our website for each item.

What is Prop 65 about?

In 1986, the people of California passed a ballot initiative proposition called the Safe Drinking Water and Toxic Enforcement Act of 1986, now commonly known as "Prop 65", primarily designed to prevent dumping of toxic chemicals in California waters. However, it also required warnings on products that contain certain chemicals. While we certainly agree that keeping industrial chemicals out of food products is a good idea, that is not what Prop 65 does.

Prop 65 applies to any product or service received or used in California. As applied to foods, Prop 65 makes no distinction between natural and artificial products. And although it excludes "naturally occurring" chemicals in foods, that term does not include man-made pollutants that may end up in natural products through means outside of the manufacturer's control. Prop 65 does not distinguish between chemicals resulting from external sources like worldwide soil, water, and air pollution, pesticide over-spray or chemical leaks, which are then absorbed by plants, and those that are intentionally applied like synthetic fertilizers and pesticides or chemicals introduced later in drying, processing or manufacturing.

What types of chemicals require this warning?

Prop 65 applies to over 800 chemicals identified by the State of California as carcinogens and reproductive toxins. The list contains a wide range of naturally occurring and synthetic chemicals that are known to cause cancer or birth defects or other reproductive harm. These chemicals include additives or ingredients in pesticides, common household products, food, drugs, dyes, and solvents. Listed chemicals may also be used in manufacturing and construction, or they may be byproducts of chemical processes such as motor vehicle exhaust.

Prop 65 does not limit in any way, nor requires the disclosure of the amounts of chemicals that can be put into a product as long as the warning is given. It does set a "safe harbor" exposure level for many of the governed chemicals, below which no warning is required. Safe Harbor Levels are often much lower than those set by the FDA, EPA and WHO.

Comparison of the Prop 65 Standards vs National Standards

Let's use lead as an example. Lead is a naturally occurring element that is found in the environment, including soil. According to the EPA, natural levels of lead in soil can range between 50 parts per million (ppm) and 400 ppm. Human-spread lead contamination widens this range, of course, with reports of over 10,000 ppm in certain types of areas, such as industrial facilities. (Source 2)

- International standards for lead in dietary supplements and food are often set at no more than 5 ppm.
- The Prop 65 Safe Harbor Maximum Allowable Dose Level for lead is 0.5 micrograms per day, meaning that a person may not be exposed to lead above this amount, by any product, without a Prop 65 warning.

Setting aside the difficulties of translating this exposure level to a concentration level in a specific product, applying this standard to herbs and supplements means that lead content levels would need to be many times lower than federal levels in order for a product to be sold without a Prop 65 warning. Above the Safe Harbor Levels, a Prop 65 warning must be given to avoid lawsuits and potential liability.

When grown in soil with a relatively "low" lead content (500 ppm), spinach and radishes can have lead levels that exceed 3 ppm, while beets and carrots can exceed 6 ppm. [Source 3] Also, herbs may contain over 90% water by weight, so lead levels in dried herbs can be up to 10 times higher than their fresh counterparts. In addition, it is difficult to get root crops entirely free of the soil they are grown in. Under these circumstances, it is easy to see how it might be difficult to keep lead levels low in natural herbal products and especially in herbal root products.

For comparison:

Lead Prop 65 warning required at 0.5 micrograms/serving and higher.

FDA tolerable daily intake level:

- Adults: 75 micrograms
- Children: 6 micrograms

A 4oz. serving of nuts, Brussel sprouts, or spinach can deliver up to 10 micrograms of naturally occurring lead. Indeed, virtually all foods contain lead and other heavy metals. In a study by the European Food Safety Authority the estimated mean lifetime dietary exposure from all sources [Source 5] to lead was estimated to be almost 50 micrograms per day in the overall European adult population. This is 100 times the Prop 65 limit. As you can see the potential amount of lead exposure from herbs and spices is at most a small amount of the total exposure to lead for the average person.

When manufacturing herbal products, it is often impossible to meet Safe Harbor levels. When Safe Harbor levels cannot be met, Starwest applies the appropriate Prop 65 warning to its labels.

Should I be concerned about Starwest products?

A Prop 65 warning does not necessarily mean the product is dangerous. Starwest tests all its ingestible products for Lead, Cadmium, Mercury and Arsenic. Used properly, we believe our products pose no health risk. We apply the warning to protect our company from lawsuits by individuals and groups looking for businesses that allegedly do not comply with Prop 65.

For many herb and other food and supplement products it is impossible to both meet the Safe Harbor Levels and provide a realistic serving size, so the choice is to either put the warning on the label or discontinue selling many of our products.

What if I'm still concerned about lead or other heavy metals in herbs?

You can consider taking herbs in tea or extract form. Our testing of a variety of teas and liquid extracts indicates that heavy metals are not soluble or only slightly soluble in alcohol and water and the exposure to heavy metals is even less when using herbs in these forms.

Why do some herbal products have a warning and others don't?

While unlikely, it could be that the supplier has determined that their product falls within safe harbor rules. More likely, the supplier may not yet have implemented the warnings for their products yet, or they are not aware of the potential legal liability.

I do not live in California. Why am I receiving this warning?

The law applies to all products sold in California whether or not the manufacturer sells the product in California or intends for the product to be sold in California. We sell our products through distributors who may sell the product into California, so we cannot limit the labeling only to products/orders we ship directly to California.

STARWEST ENVIRONMENTAL PRACTICES AND SUSTAINABILITY

Environmental Practices

At Starwest, we know that every choice we make—big or small—leaves a mark on the world around us. That's why we're committed to making sure our impact is a positive one. From the way we source energy to how we handle daily waste, we do our best to tread lightly and live in harmony with the planet.

One way we do this is by supporting our local utility's Greenenergy® program. It lets us purchase clean power from renewable sources like wind, water, sun, and biomass. This helps reduce the need for high-polluting power plants and supports the creation of new, greener energy resources—so we can all breathe a little easier.

Eco-Friendly Shipping, Thoughtfully Packed

At Starwest, we believe that taking care of the planet starts with the little things—like how we pack and ship your herbs, teas, and botanicals. That's why we're always looking for ways to make our shipping practices more sustainable and earth-friendly.

We carefully package each order to protect your items and make the most of every bit of space, using materials that are recyclable, biodegradable, and, whenever possible, made from renewable resources.

One of the exciting changes we've made in recent years, is saying goodbye to bubble wrap! In its place, we're using a protective paper wrap that's just as cushy and effective—but it's also compostable, naturally biodegradable, SFI-certified, and fully recyclable. It's a small shift that makes a big difference for the environment—and we're just getting started.

Recycling & Waste: Doing Our Part for the Planet

We care deeply about preserving the Earth—not just for today, but for future generations. That's why we're always working to improve how we manage waste and care for our environment.

Every year, we take steps to grow our recycling efforts and cut down on what ends up in the landfill. Our goal is simple: to use our materials wisely, minimize waste, and reduce greenhouse gas emissions wherever we can.

Across our workspace, you'll find clearly marked containers to make recycling easy and effective. It's just one of the ways we stay mindful of our footprint—and keep moving toward a cleaner, greener future.

We Support Sustainable Organic Farming

We believe that how something is grown matters just as much as what it is. That's why we proudly support sustainable organic farming practices that care for the Earth while nourishing people.

Sustainable farming means growing crops in a way that protects natural resources, keeps the soil healthy, and avoids harmful chemicals. It's better for the planet and better for you—bringing you clean, natural products you can feel good about.

By choosing herbs and botanicals grown this way, we help preserve the land for future generations and support farmers who are making a real difference.

A Passion for Sustainability

At Starwest, our love for natural wellness is rooted in something even deeper—a genuine respect for the Earth. From the very beginning, we've believed that caring for people and caring for the planet should go hand in hand.

Since 1980—long before “organic” became a trend—we've supported sustainable and organic farming practices that protect the land and nourish our communities. It's been part of who we are from the start. That commitment guides everything we do—from thoughtfully sourcing our herbs and botanicals to expanding our collection of certified organic teas, spices, essential oils, extracts, and more.

We believe your customers' wellness routine should feel good and do good. And with Starwest, it always does.

The Work We Do in Organic: How It Supports Farmers Without Taking Advantage of Them

When done right, organic isn't just about what's on your plate—it's about how we treat the people who grow it. For small farms and family growers, organic can create real change. Here's how:

Fairer, More Reliable Prices

Organic products often sell for more—and while that's not always a sure thing, it can mean better pay for farmers. When we lock in prices before harvest, farmers can plan ahead without worrying about sudden price drops. That kind of stability makes a big difference.

Support Beyond the Sale

We don't just buy from organic farmers—we back them up. That means offering training, support, and long-term relationships so farmers can switch to organic, stay certified, and grow their business without falling into debt or losing control.

Less Harmful Chemicals

Organic farming avoids synthetic pesticides and fertilizers, which means fewer toxic chemicals around the farm. That's not just better for the planet—it's safer for the farmers, their families, and their communities. Healthier environments lead to fewer doctor visits and long-term health risks.

Relationships Built on Trust

Too often, farmers are left in the dark about where their crops go or who's buying them. We aim to change that by building supply chains where farmers are seen, heard, and respected. When they know the value of their work, they're no longer just a name on a label.

Healthier Soil = Stronger Farms

Organic practices focus on keeping soil alive and well. For farmers passing land down to their kids, that's not just eco-speak—it's about survival. Healthy soil means fewer costs and better protection during tough seasons, helping farms last for generations.

Keeping Culture and Nature Alive

Many herbs and plants we work with come from places rich in culture and biodiversity. Organic farming helps protect those traditions and the ecosystems they're part of. Farmers aren't just workers—they're guardians of knowledge, land, and legacy.

This doesn't mean organic is perfect or that every brand does it right. But when it's done with care—long-term, people-first, and grounded in respect—it creates a better system. One where farmers are supported. Not used. Not forgotten.
